

Chef Lorenzo Santillan Ni De Aqui Ni De Alla

In 2004, Lorenzo Santillan and three of his classmates at an urban high school in Phoenix entered an underwater robotics competition sponsored by NASA and the U.S. Navy. Despite obstacles, Santillan and his teammates went on to beat MIT to win the national championship.

Lorenzo has since made the leap to pursue his passion: food. Opening a food truck, Ni De Aqui Ni De Alla, Santillan has gained a steady following and increases to grow his business. He hopes to one day have a brick and mortar spot that will bring his family's authentic Mexican recipes and culture to the masses.